

Save 15% on flowers and gifts.

SHOP NOW

1800
flowers.com
Let us arrange a smile for you

HOUSE OF THE DAY: A-Rod Finally Finds A $6 Million Condo On The Upper West Side

Leah Goldman | Feb. 18, 2011, 11:30 AM | 🔥 4,813 | 💬 2

A A A

After an exhausting real estate search in New York City, Alex Rodriguez has finally decided on a place.

The Wall Street Journal reports that A-Rod will buy a 35th floor, five bedroom condo, at The Rushmore, overlooking the Hudson River on Manhattan's west side.

The sale price is between $5.5 and $6 million. Rumors have been flying for years about A-Rod's search, and if they're all true, he's looked in almost every neighborhood in New York City since becoming a Yankee in 2004.

A-Rod couldn't ask for more in a building. There are views of the Hudson, the park is steps away, the building has amazing amenities, and there's a baseball field right outside. Take a look around one of the model apartments to see how A-Rod will be living.

Click here to tour the apartment >

Image: The Rushmore

See Also:

HOUSE OF THE DAY: Derek Jeter Finishes Construction On His $7.7 Million Tampa Bay Mansion

HOUSE OF THE DAY: Derek Jeter's $20 Million Penthouse Gets Pimped Out

The Cardinals Have Severely Underpaid Albert Pujols So Far In His Career